

Basic Books, Inc., Publishers
404 Park Avenue South
New York, N. Y. 10016

U.S. POSTAGE
BULK RATE
PAID
NEW YORK, N. Y.
PERMIT No. 7485

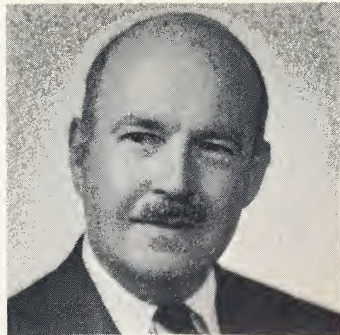

C
THEODOR H. NELSON
VASSAR COLLEGE
POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. 12601

27 New and Important Books for the Sociologist

...and all at a special
professional discount

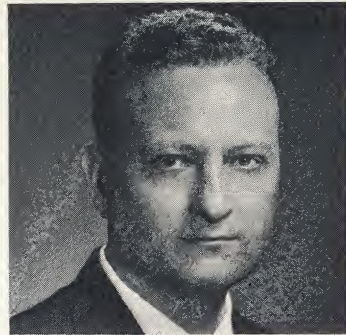

1.

2.

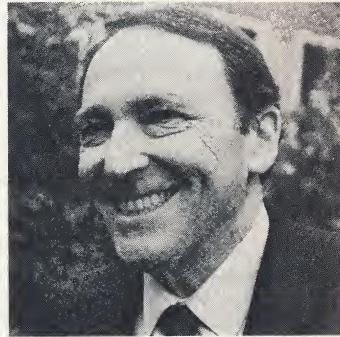

3.

4.

5.

6.

1. S. N. Eisenstadt, editor, The Protestant Ethic and Modernization
2. Talcott Parsons, editor, American Sociology
3. Michael Banton, Race Relations
4. Irwin Deutscher, co-editor, Among the People
5. Herbert J. Gans, People and Plans
6. Lewis S. Feuer, The Conflict of Generations

1984-85 CATALOG

Your Collection
Development Source

UMI Research Collections

RC&CP

1. S. N. Eisenstadt, editor, The Protestant Ethic and Modernization
2. Talcott Parsons, editor, American Sociology
3. Michael Banton, Race Relations
4. Irwin Deutscher, co-editor, Among the People
5. Herbert J. Gans, People and Plans
6. Lewis S. Feuer, The Conflict of Generations

Basic Books, Inc., Publishers
404 Park Avenue South
New York, N. Y. 10016

U.S. POSTAGE
BULK RATE
PAID
NEW YORK, N.
PERMIT No. 748

C
THEODOR H. NELSON
VASSAR COLLEGE
POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. 12601

27 New and Important Books for the Sociologist

...and all at a special
professional discount

American Sociology

Perspectives, Problems,
Methods

TALCOTT PARSONS, editor

How far has American sociology come to date and what directions is it likely to take tomorrow? Where do the principal problem areas of theory and research lie and which are the promising recent advances in methodology?

These are some of the questions considered by twenty-four of America's leading sociologists in this authoritative new stocktaking of the status of their profession today. Under the editorship of Talcott Parsons, Professor of Sociology at Harvard University, who contributes an introduction and a concluding section, the volume is also intended to serve as a comprehensive introduction to sociological problems and methods. A partial listing of contributors and their subjects includes: Alex Inkeles, on Personality and Social Structure; Seymour Martin Lipset, on Political Sociology; Edward Shils, on The Macro-Sociological View of Society and Societies; Paul F. Lazarsfeld, on Measurement; Everett C. Hughes, on Work and Leisure; Thomas F. Pettigrew, on Race Relations in the U.S.; Charles Tilly, on The Forms of Urbanization; S. N. Eisenstadt, on Ideology and Social Change.

$6.95 / $5.55

Among The People

Encounters with the Poor

IRWIN DEUTSCHER and
ELIZABETH J. THOMPSON

editors

The contributors to Among the People — sociologists, psychologists, educators, social workers, economists, physicians — all have one experience in common: they have each worked intensively with the chronically poor in our society. In this revealing volume, they draw on their firsthand knowledge of the life of the poverty-stricken — the welfare cases, the “unemployables” and the “uneducables,” the ghetto residents, the alienated and “delinquent” young — to present a vivid portrait of how it feels and how it looks to be one of the “disadvantaged.”

The editors — respectively a Professor of Sociology at Syracuse University and the former Assistant Director of the Mental Health Information Program at Syracuse University — have conceived of this unusual work as a sourcebook of authentic documentation and helpful insights for all those concerned as professionals and as citizens with a problem area of growing importance in today's America.

$10.00 / $8.00

Race Relations

MICHAEL BANTON

“The best available work on race relations,” is the judgment of Melvin M. Tumin, Professor of Sociology at Princeton University, on this newly published volume. “It combines an obvious excellent command over comparative materials from a wide variety of places and times with a very thoughtful and sophisticated theoretical framework. It does what modern sociology is supposed to be doing when it is doing its best; namely, deriving a theory from a wide-ranging sample of empirical materials, so that the general statements of principles cover the range of human experience rather than reflecting the limited versions of these experiences derived from the study of one or two societies. It is both an excellent textbook and reader combined, easily accessible for the average undergraduate course in race relations. At the same time, it is sufficiently sophisticated to be the core book for a graduate seminar.”

“Banton's book,” comments Sol Tax, of the University of Chicago, “is not simply a welcome addition to the few texts in use; it is the best one.” $7.95 / $6.35

First price shown is list price; boldface shows professional discount price.

BASIC BOOKS, INC., PUBLISHERS / 404 Park Avenue South, New York, N. Y. 10016

American Sociology

*Perspectives, Problems,
Methods*

TALCOTT PARSONS, editor

How far has American sociology come to date and what directions is it likely to take tomorrow? Where do the principal problem areas of theory and research lie and which are the promising recent advances in methodology?

These are some of the questions considered by twenty-four of America's leading sociologists in this authoritative new stocktaking of the status of their profession today. Under the editorship of Talcott Parsons, Professor of Sociology at Harvard University, who contributes an introduction and a concluding section, the volume is also intended to serve as a comprehensive introduction to sociological problems and methods. A partial listing of contributors and their subjects includes: Alex Inkeles, on Personality and Social Structure; Seymour Martin Lipset, on Political Sociology; Edward Shils, on The Macro-Sociological View of Society and Societies; Paul F. Lazarsfeld, on Measurement; Everett C. Hughes, on Work and Leisure; Thomas F. Pettigrew, on Race Relations in the U.S.; Charles Tilly, on The Forms of Urbanization; S. N. Eisenstadt, on Ideology and Social Change.

$6.95 / $5.55

Among The People

Encounters with the Poor

IRWIN DEUTSCHER and
ELIZABETH J. THOMPSON
editors

The contributors to Among the People — sociologists, psychologists, educators, social workers, economists, physicians — all have one experience in common: they have each worked intensively with the chronically poor in our society. In this revealing volume, they draw on their firsthand knowledge of the life of the poverty-stricken — the welfare cases, the “unemployables” and the “uneducables,” the ghetto residents, the alienated and “delinquent” young — to present a vivid portrait of how it feels and how it looks to be one of the “disadvantaged.”

Revolution and Counterrevolution

*Change and Persistence
in Social Structures*

SEYMOUR MARTIN LIPSET

One of the foremost figures in the field of political sociology here collects eleven of his major essays and articles, never before available in book form. Divided into four parts, this new volume by the distinguished Professor of Government and Social Relations at Harvard University presents writings on: the methodology of political sociology; the analysis of value differences in Canada, Latin America, and the United States; the comparison of political cleavages in underdeveloped and developed nations; and the work and thought of three pioneer social scientists, Martineau, Ostrogorski, and Michels. In the course of the essays, Professor Lipset ranges over such subjects as the contrasting modes of modernization in Europe and Asia, the role of religious beliefs in the emergence of political systems, the relation of declining social status to political "backlash" in our society — and provides a masterful lesson in the sociological uses of the comparative and historical analysis of politics.

$10.00 / $8.00

The Conflict Of Generations

*The Character and Significance of
Student Movements*

LEWIS S. FEUER

The phenomenon of student rebellion is the core of this searching 640-page volume by the well-known Professor of Sociology at the University of Toronto. Professor Feuer subjects student dissidence to intensive descriptive and analytical study — and to a profoundly original theoretical treatment. First, he presents a comprehensive history of student rebel movements in Europe, Asia, and the Americas since the early nineteenth century. He then draws together a multitude of empirical findings in a fascinating new theory of student rebellion, grounded in what he sees as a recurrent conflict between the generations at times of major social transition. Taking full account of sociological and psychological factors, the author formulates a theoretical statement which may well provoke controversy but which is certain to be regarded as an enduring contribution. $12.50 / $10.00

People and Plans

Essays on Urban Problems and Solutions

HERBERT J. GANS

In a volume as challenging and unsettling as any of his previous works, the Senior Staff Sociologist at the Center for Urban Education turns a revealing spotlight on the field of urban planning. Applying basic sociological concepts and data in an examination of issues and practices, Gans criticizes what he sees as a preoccupation with physical order, efficiency, and appearance at the expense of individual and social needs. In twenty-nine stimulating essays, many hitherto unpublished and all appearing in book form for the first time, he offers his proposals for dealing positively with such problems as the inequities of many urban renewal programs, white "fantasies" about black Americans, and the alleged monotony of suburban living.

$10.00 / $8.00

Social Class and Social Policy

S. M. MILLER and FRANK RIESSMAN

How can the knowledge and methods of the social sciences be made more accessible to those who actually man the outposts in the struggle for mental health and community action and against poverty?

This is the question to which two New York University sociologists address themselves in a volume which draws upon their more than twenty years of firsthand experience with social workers, educators, and administrators in social planning. Through detailed discussions of actual poverty, mental health, and community action programs, the authors show how failure often results from inadequate acquaintance with or a resistance to sound social science methods for ascertaining community needs or individual behavior patterns. Finally, they propose concrete techniques for overcoming this serious and widespread problem.

$7.95 / $6.35

First price shown is list price; boldface shows professional discount price.

BASIC BOOKS, INC., PUBLISHERS / 404 Park Avenue South, New York, N. Y. 10016

Revolution and Counterrevolution

*Change and Persistence
in Social Structures*

SEYMOUR MARTIN LIPSET

One of the foremost figures in the field of political sociology here collects eleven of his major essays and articles, never before available in book form. Divided into four parts, this new volume by the distinguished Professor of Government and Social Relations at Harvard University presents writings on: the methodology of political sociology; the analysis of value differences in Canada, Latin America, and the United States; the comparison of political cleavages in underdeveloped and developed nations; and the work and thought of three pioneer social scientists, Martineau, Ostrogorski, and Michels. In the course of the essays, Professor Lipset ranges over such subjects as the contrasting modes of modernization in Europe and Asia, the role of religious beliefs in the emergence of political systems, the relation of declining social status to political "backlash" in our society — and provides a masterful lesson in the sociological uses of the comparative and historical analysis of politics.

$10.00 / $8.00

The Conflict Of Generations

*The Character and
Significance of
Student Movements*

LEWIS S. FEUER

The phenomenon of student rebellion is the core of this searching 640-page volume by the well-known Professor of Sociology at the University of Toronto. Professor Feuer subjects student dissidence to intensive descriptive and analytical study — and to a profoundly original theoretical treatment. First, he presents a comprehensive history of student rebel movements in Europe, Asia, and the Americas since the early nineteenth century. He then draws together a multitude of empirical findings in a fascinating new theory of student rebellion, grounded in what he sees as a recurrent conflict between the generations at times of major social transition. Taking full account of sociological and psychological factors, the author formulates a theoretical statement which may well provoke controversy but which is certain to be regarded as an enduring contribution.

$12.50 / $10.00

People and Plans

Essays on Urban Problems and Solutions

HERBERT J. GANS

In a volume as challenging and unsettling as any of his previous works, the Senior Staff Sociologist at the Center for Urban Education turns a revealing spotlight on the field of urban planning. Applying basic sociological concepts and data in an examination of issues and practices, Gans criticizes what he sees as a preoccupation with physical order, efficiency, and appearance at the expense of individual and social needs. In twenty-nine stimulating essays, many hitherto unpublished and all appearing in book form for the first time, he offers his proposals for dealing positively with such problems as the inequities of many urban renewal programs, white "fantasies" about black Americans, and the alleged monotony of suburban living.

$10.00 / $8.00

Social Class and Social Policy

S. M. MILLER and FRANK RIESSMAN

How can the knowledge and methods of the social sciences be made more accessible to those who actually man the outposts in the struggle for mental health and community action and against poverty?

This is the question to which two New York University sociologists address themselves in a volume which draws upon their more than twenty years of firsthand experience with social workers, educators, and administrators in social planning. Through detailed discussions of actual poverty, mental health, and community action programs, the authors show how failure often results from inadequate acquaintance with or a resistance to sound social science methods for ascertaining community needs or individual behavior patterns. Finally, they propose concrete techniques for overcoming this serious and widespread problem.

$7.95 / $6.35

First price shown is list price; boldface shows professional discount price.

BASIC BOOKS, INC., PUBLISHERS / 404 Park Avenue South, New York, N. Y. 10016

American Sociology

Perspectives, Problems,
Methods

TALCOTT PARSONS, editor

How far has American sociology come to date and what directions is it likely to take tomorrow? Where do the principal problem areas of theory and research lie and which are the promising recent advances in methodology?

These are some of the questions considered by twenty-four of America's leading sociologists in this authoritative new stocktaking of the status of their profession today. Under the editorship of Talcott Parsons, Professor of Sociology at Harvard University, who contributes an introduction and a concluding section, the volume is also intended to serve as a comprehensive introduction to sociological problems and methods. A partial listing of contributors and their subjects includes: Alex Inkeles, on Personality and Social Structure; Seymour Martin Lipset, on Political Sociology; Edward Shils, on The Macro-Sociological View of Society and Societies; Paul F. Lazarsfeld, on Measurement; Everett C. Hughes, on Work and Leisure; Thomas F. Pettigrew, on Race Relations in the U.S.; Charles Tilly, on The Forms of Urbanization; S. N. Eisenstadt, on Ideology and Social Change.

$6.95 / $5.55

Among The People

Encounters with the Poor

IRWIN DEUTSCHER and
ELIZABETH J. THOMPSON

editors

The contributors to Among the People — sociologists, psychologists, educators, social workers, economists, physicians — all have one experience in common: they have each worked intensively with the chronically poor in our society. In this revealing volume, they draw on their firsthand knowledge of the life of the poverty-stricken — the welfare cases, the “unemployables” and the “uneducables,” the ghetto residents, the alienated and “delinquent” young — to present a vivid portrait of how it feels and how it looks to be one of the “disadvantaged.”

The editors — respectively a Professor of Sociology at Syracuse University and the former Assistant Director of the Mental Health Information Program at Syracuse University — have conceived of this unusual work as a sourcebook of authentic documentation and helpful insights for all those concerned as professionals and as citizens with a problem area of growing importance in today's America.

$10.00 / $8.00

Race Relations

MICHAEL BANTON

“The best available work on race relations,” is the judgment of Melvin M. Tumin, Professor of Sociology at Princeton University, on this newly published volume. “It combines an obvious excellent command over comparative materials from a wide variety of places and times with a very thoughtful and sophisticated theoretical framework. It does what modern sociology is supposed to be doing when it is doing its best; namely, deriving a theory from a wide-ranging sample of empirical materials, so that the general statements of principles cover the range of human experience rather than reflecting the limited versions of these experiences derived from the study of one or two societies. It is both an excellent textbook and reader combined, easily accessible for the average undergraduate course in race relations. At the same time, it is sufficiently sophisticated to be the core book for a graduate seminar.”

“Banton's book,” comments Sol Tax, of the University of Chicago, “is not simply a welcome addition to the few texts in use; it is the best one.” $7.95 / $6.35

First price shown is list price; boldface shows professional discount price.

BASIC BOOKS, INC., PUBLISHERS / 404 Park Avenue South, New York, N. Y. 10016

Revolution and Counterrevolution

*Change and Persistence
in Social Structures*

SEYMOUR MARTIN LIPSET

One of the foremost figures in the field of political sociology here collects eleven of his major essays and articles, never before available in book form. Divided into four parts, this new volume by the distinguished Professor of Government and Social Relations at Harvard University presents writings on: the methodology of political sociology; the analysis of value differences in Canada, Latin America, and the United States; the comparison of political cleavages in underdeveloped and developed nations; and the work and thought of three pioneer social scientists, Martineau, Ostrogorski, and Michels. In the course of the essays, Professor Lipset ranges over such subjects as the contrasting modes of modernization in Europe and Asia, the role of religious beliefs in the emergence of political systems, the relation of declining social status to political "backlash" in our society — and provides a masterful lesson in the sociological uses of the comparative and historical analysis of politics. $10.00 / $8.00

The Conflict Of Generations

*The Character and
Significance of
Student Movements*

LEWIS S. FEUER

The phenomenon of student rebellion is the core of this searching 640-page volume by the well-known Professor of Sociology at the University of Toronto. Professor Feuer subjects student dissidence to intensive descriptive and analytical study — and to a profoundly original theoretical treatment. First, he presents a comprehensive history of student rebel movements in Europe, Asia, and the Americas since the early nineteenth century. He then draws together a multitude of empirical findings in a fascinating new theory of student rebellion, grounded in what he sees as a recurrent conflict between the generations at times of major social transition. Taking full account of sociological and psychological factors, the author formulates a theoretical statement which may well provoke controversy but which is certain to be regarded as an enduring contribution. $12.50 / $10.00

People and Plans

Essays on Urban Problems and Solutions

HERBERT J. GANS

In a volume as challenging and unsettling as any of his previous works, the Senior Staff Sociologist at the Center for Urban Education turns a revealing spotlight on the field of urban planning. Applying basic sociological concepts and data in an examination of issues and practices, Gans criticizes what he sees as a preoccupation with physical order, efficiency, and appearance at the expense of individual and social needs. In twenty-nine stimulating essays, many hitherto unpublished and all appearing in book form for the first time, he offers his proposals for dealing positively with such problems as the inequities of many urban renewal programs, white "fantasies" about black Americans, and the alleged monotony of suburban living. $10.00 / $8.00

Social Class and Social Policy

S. M. MILLER and FRANK RIESSMAN

How can the knowledge and methods of the social sciences be made more accessible to those who actually man the outposts in the struggle for mental health and community action and against poverty?

This is the question to which two New York University sociologists address themselves in a volume which draws upon their more than twenty years of firsthand experience with social workers, educators, and administrators in social planning. Through detailed discussions of actual poverty, mental health, and community action programs, the authors show how failure often results from inadequate acquaintance with or a resistance to sound social science methods for ascertaining community needs or individual behavior patterns. Finally, they propose concrete techniques for overcoming this serious and widespread problem. $7.95 / $6.35

First price shown is list price; boldface shows professional discount price.

BASIC BOOKS, INC., PUBLISHERS / 404 Park Avenue South, New York, N. Y. 10016

Modern Social Theory

PERCY S. COHEN

Dean of Undergraduate Studies and Reader in Sociology at the London School of Economics, Dr. Cohen has written an incisive introduction to theoretical sociology, in which he focuses on the relationships between systems and action approaches in the explanation of social persistence and social change. Placing in perspective such classic writings as those of Marx, Durkheim, Weber, and Simmel, he also evaluates the contributions of contemporary sociologists concerned with the logic of social analysis. $5.95 / $4.75

Explorations in Social Policy

ALVIN L. SCHORR

Foreword by John W. Gardner

What are the key elements — and how can they be combined — in a rational, comprehensive approach to the solution of such pressing social problems as slums, poverty, and delinquency? The articulate Deputy Assistant Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare — author of the well-known Poor Kids — addresses himself to some of the most persistent and troublesome issues in the field of social policy in this new volume of essays collected for the first time. $6.95 / $5.55

International Systems and the Modernization of Societies

J. P. NETTL and ROLAND ROBERTSON

A provocative book has resulted from the collaboration between the University of Pennsylvania sociologist and a member of the Department of Social Relations at the University of Leeds. The authors chart a new direction in the study of international relations by applying certain unfamiliar aspects of sociological theory to societies in an international environment. With impressive detail and precision, they relate the changing structure of societies to their behavior in the international arena. $5.95 / $4.75

War

Studies from Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology
Revised, Enlarged Edition

LEON BRAMSON and GEORGE W. GOETHALS, editors

Now expanded by the addition of quite recent writings on the subject, this revised edition of a celebrated book makes once again available the thinking of leading sociologists, psychologists and anthropologists on the causes of war. Contents range from such classic writers as William James, Herbert Spencer, and Sigmund Freud to contemporaries, including Erik H. Erikson, Gordon W. Allport, Margaret Mead, Morris Janowitz, and Raymond Aron. Paperback edition available for classroom use. $10.00 / $8.00

A Great Society?

BERTRAM M. GROSS, editor

Foreword by Stephen K. Bailey

Daniel Bell, Kenneth E. Boulding, Don K. Price, Hans J. Morgenthau, and Herbert Marcuse are among the twelve distinguished scholars and social scientists who contribute to this wide-ranging inquiry into the bases of contemporary national policy and into its import for the future course of American policies and action. "There is a very great deal here which is valuable, highly interesting and stimulating. . . . Not only submits the Johnson administration's conception of the Great Society to the most rigorous scrutiny and analysis, but also thoughtfully and perceptively examines the philosophical tenets and claims of any Great Society . . . potentially a very important book." — E. Berkeley Tompkins, Department of History, Stanford University $8.50 / $6.80

Value Systems and Social Process

SIR GEOFFREY VICKERS

Social management and social regulation will become virtually impossible unless man can develop more appropriate and coherent systems of concepts and values. This is the warning relayed by one of Britain's most cogent thinkers on the subject of management in a penetrating new volume that attempts to apply modern concepts of communication and control to the problem of regulating human societies. $6.50 / $5.20

The Sociology of American History

RICHARD HOFSTADTER and
SEYMOUR MARTIN LIPSET, editors

This major new series of compact readers, jointly edited by a distinguished sociologist and a leading historian, is designed to advance the fruitful application of sociological methods and data to the analysis of certain types of historical problems. The first two volumes in the series are:

Sociology and History: Methods

A comprehensive survey of the varieties of sociological techniques employed by such well-known scholars as Digby Baltzell, David Donald, Paul F. Lazarsfeld, Eric L. McKittrick, Samuel P. Hays, Stephan Thernstrom, and others. Paperback edition available for classroom use. $7.95 / $6.35

Turner and the Sociology of the Frontier

Here is a volume which places in sociological perspective the important "Turner thesis." Among the contributors — sociologists and historians — who take part in this symposium: Stanley Elkins, Fred Shannon, Allan G. Bogue, George W. Pierson, Everett S. Lee, and others. Paperback edition available for classroom use. $5.95 / $4.75

First price shown is list price; boldface shows professional discount price.

BASIC BOOKS, INC., PUBLISHERS / 404 Park Avenue South, New York, N. Y. 10016

The Logic of Survey Analysis

MORRIS ROSENBERG

Foreword by Paul F. Lazarsfeld

In recent decades the sample survey has established itself as the basic research procedure in sociology. While there are a number of books available on research design and data collection, this is the first book devoted exclusively to the logic and reasoning underlying survey data analysis. Written in simple non-mathematical terms and making abundant use of concrete empirical examples drawn from the experience of professional research investigators, this book is both an invaluable text and a useful guide for prospective researchers in the social sciences.

$6.95 / $5.55

Israeli Society

S. N. EISENSTADT

The distinguished winner of the MacIver Award in sociology (for his Political System of Empires) now turns to a painstaking social analysis of contemporary Israel, focusing on a multiplicity of problems that range from integration of the new immigrant to the political party system.

$10.95 / $8.75

Children, Poverty, and Family Allowances

JAMES C. VADAKIN

Foreword by Daniel P. Moynihan

The economist who helped frame the family-allowances bill, now pending before the U.S. House of Representatives, here reviews the nature, purposes, and methods of family allowances in other countries, and proposes a viable system that could materially improve the welfare of children in deprived U.S. families.

$6.50 / $5.20

First price shown is list price; boldface shows professional discount price.

Black Rage

WILLIAM H. GRIER and PRICE M. COBBS

The first volume to bring to bear the insights of modern psychiatry on the painful problem of the black man in America. The authors, both psychiatrists and both blacks, demonstrate — with extensive documentation from their clinical experiences with black patients, as well as from their own lives — that the prevalence and insidiousness of white racism burns deeply and early into the awareness of every black, male or female. With stunning impact, they depict the poisonous effects of prejudice on psychosexual development, on family relationships, on intellectual and social growth, and on the innermost self-image of the black.

$5.95 / $4.75

The Uses of Sociology

LAZARSELD, SEWELL, and WILENSKY, editors $15.00 / $12.00

The Sociological Tradition

ROBERT A. NISBET $7.95 / $6.35

Organizational Intelligence

HAROLD L. WILENSKY $5.95 / $4.75

Main Currents in Sociological Thought

Volume One: Montesquieu, Comte, Marx $5.95 / $4.75

Volume Two: Durkheim, Pareto, Weber $6.50 / $5.20

RAYMOND ARON

Negro Social & Political Thought: 1850-1920

HOWARD BROTZ, editor $12.50 / $10.00

CLIP ALONG BROKEN LINE BEFORE RETURNING POSTAGE-PAID ORDER FORM BELOW

BASIC BOOKS, INC., PUBLISHERS

404 Park Avenue South New York, N.Y. 10016

Please send me the following books at the professional discount prices shown. I understand that, if I am not completely satisfied, I may return the books within ten days for a full refund.

- ___ American Sociology ($6.95 / $5.55)
- ___ Among the People ($10.00 / $8.00)
- ___ Race Relations ($7.95 / $6.35)
- ___ Revolution and Counterrevolution ($10.00 / $8.00)
- ___ Conflict of Generations ($12.50 / $10.00)
- ___ People and Plans ($10.00 / $8.00)
- ___ Social Class and Social Policy ($7.95 / $6.35)
- ___ Urban Planning and Social Policy ($10.00 / $8.00)
- ___ Protestant Ethic and Modernization ($10.00 / $8.00)
- ___ Modern Social Theory ($5.95 / $4.75)
- ___ Explorations in Social Policy ($6.95 / $5.55)
- ___ Int'l. Systems and Modernization of Societies ($5.95 / $4.75)
- ___ War: Revised Edition ($10.00 / $8.00)
- ___ A Great Society? ($8.50 / $6.80)
- ___ Value Systems and Social Process ($6.50 / $5.20)
- ___ Sociology and History: Methods ($7.95 / $6.35)

- ___ Turner and the Sociology of the Frontier ($5.95 / $4.75)
- ___ Logic of Survey Analysis ($6.95 / $5.55)
- ___ Israeli Society ($10.95 / $8.75)
- ___ Children, Poverty, and Family Allowances ($6.50 / $5.20)
- ___ Black Rage ($5.95 / $4.75)
- ___ Uses of Sociology ($15.00 / $12.00)
- ___ Sociological Tradition ($7.95 / $6.35)
- ___ Organizational Intelligence ($5.95 / $4.75)
- ___ Main Currents in Sociological Thought:
 - ___ Volume One: Montesquieu, Comte, Marx ($5.95 / $4.75)
 - ___ Volume Two: Durkheim, Pareto, Weber ($6.50 / $5.20)
- ___ Negro Social and Political Thought ($12.50 / $10.00)

Check enclosed ☐ Please bill me ☐
(publisher pays postage) (postage charge additional)

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____
& Zip _____

In New York State, add 2% sales tax; in New York City, add 5%.

BERNARD J. FRIEDEN and ROBERT MORRIS, editors

Among the contributors and their subjects: Melvin M. Webber, on Comprehensive Planning and Social Responsibility; Robert Morris and Martin Rein, on Emerging Patterns in Community Planning; Herbert J. Gans, on Social and Physical Planning for the Elimination of Urban Poverty; Marc Fried and Joan Levin, on Some Social Functions of the Urban Slum; Alvin L. Schorr, on National Community and Housing Policy; Chester Rapkin and William Grigsby, on The Prospect for Stable Interracial Neighborhoods; Robert A. Dentler, on Barriers to Northern School Desegregation; Charles E. Silberman, on The Woodlawn Experiment; James Q. Wilson, on Citizen Participation in Urban Renewal; Eveline M. Burns, on Where Welfare Falls Short; Robert A. Dahl, on The Analysis of Influence in Local Communities; S. M. Miller, on A Typological Approach to the American Lower Classes; Robert M. Solow, on Technology and Unemployment; Bernard J. Frieden, on Toward Equality of Urban Opportunity; and Bayard Rustin, on The Future of the Civil Rights Movement. Paperback edition available for classroom use. $10.00 / $8.00

A Comparative View

Though Max Weber's classic formulation of the role of Protestant values in the emergence of modern capitalism now dates back nearly seventy years, it remains one of the most influential ideas ever advanced in the field of social science. More important, it continues to excite controversy – always lively, frequently impassioned and unfailingly fruitful.

This latest volume by the eminent Professor of Sociology and Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem brings together writings by other well-known sociologists, as well as pertinent contributions by political scientists and anthropologists. Professor Eisenstadt's intention, he explains, is to highlight the continuing relevance of Max Weber's seminal thinking for the contemporary understanding of the modernization process. Toward this end, he has sought out major current writings that re-examine the Protestant ethic thesis in the light of contemporary sociological analysis, and those which apply the Weber thesis both to non-Western and Western societies as they exist in our day.

Many theoretical and practical implications emerge from this new work which presents contributions by, among others, Herbert Lüthy, Michael Walzer, Sidney A. Burrell, Charles and Katherine George, Robert N. Bellah, Michael Ames, and Clifford Geertz. Paperback edition available for classroom use.

$10.00 / $8.00

No postage stamp necessary if mailed in the United States

Postage will be paid by

404 Park Avenue South
New York, N. Y. 10016

FIRST CLASS
PERMIT NO. 22815
NEW YORK, N. Y.

[illegible]